

Living in the Cold

Living in the snow has lots of challenges. Sometimes people have to be creative to help them do things in heavy snow and ice.

Sleds help people to move heavy things through the snow. They slide easily on the ice.

Dogs help to pull sleds on the snow. Sled dogs have thick fur to help them stay warm.

Snowshoes help to walk in deep snow. They make the area being stepped on larger which makes it easier to move.

The Inuit also had a way to move through the cold waters. The kayak is a small one-person boat made for moving through the freezing waters of the North Pole.
